Village of Fox Crossing
Neenah, WI 54956

Kim Burdick
920-720-7101
kburdick@foxcrossingwi.gov

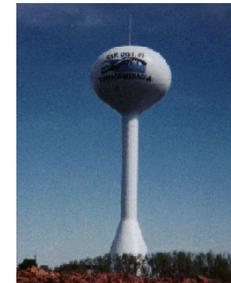

Fox Crossing's Utilities consist of three separate departments: Stormwater, Water and Wastewater.

Maintenance Worker

Storm water is rain water that runs off of our streets, parking lots, construction sites, and lawns into ditches, gutters, streams and storm sewers. The Stormwater department manages this runoff through detention ponds and by educating our residents and businesses in stormwater management techniques.

The Water Department is responsible for the treatment and distribution of our drinking water, as well as, the maintenance of water mains, water services, fire hydrants, reservoirs and water towers. The Water Utility has two separate water systems, the East and West sides of Little Lake Butte Des Morts.

The East Side System consists of two wells, a treatment plant, a one-million gallon reservoir, one 300,000 gallon water tower, and a metering station where 30% of East Side water is purchased from the City of Menasha and blended in the reservoir with the well water.

The West Side System consist of four wells, two treatment plants, two one million gallon reservoirs, and two 300,000 gallon water towers.

The two systems have over 140 miles of water mains and 1,407 public and over 500 private fire hydrants. The Water Department has 9,019 water meters serving customers in the Village of Fox Crossing, City of Menasha, Town of Neenah, Village of Harrison, City of Appleton, Town of Harrison, and the Town of Grand Chute.

The water department consists of 8 full-time employees and one part-time contracted employee. Service personnel are "on call" 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and 365 days a year.

The Wastewater Department is responsible for the collection of the Village's sewage and the maintenance of 127 miles of sewer mains and 8 wastewater liftstations. The department consists of 4 full-time employees. Service personnel are on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week all year. The sewage is treated at the Neenah-Menasha Sewerage Plant (east side) and Fox West Regional Sewerage Treatment Plant (west side).

Fox Crossing Utilities is looking for individuals interested in an internship program (or seasonal employment), which offers opportunities to learn more about water, a natural and essential resource. Within the water/wastewater industry, individuals will gain insight into the regulated utility culture through on the job experience. Through this program, the individual will build a skill and competency set relevant and valuable to utility operations and management. The program is scheduled to begin late spring/early summer with an opportunity to return during subsequent winter and summer breaks depending upon need, availability, performance and eligibility.
